

We are pleased to announce an organizational change that continues to ensure our readiness to pursue and respond to current and future commercial needs and opportunities, in an industry in which excellent service levels and exceptional customer experience are vital for a business' success.

Andres Huguet, has been promoted from Technical Service Coordinator to Technical Service Supervisor effective September 2017. Since joining The Intermarket Group in 2010, Andres has been an integral part of the evolution and success of the Technical Business Unit (TBU), one of the company's strategic departments. In his new position, Andres will continue contributing to the growth and development of the TBU as well as its valuable interaction with our business partners.

Andres holds both an Electronics Engineering degree as well as an Executive Master Degree on Direction of Technological and Industrial Companies from Universidad Don Bosco in El Salvador. Prior to joining The Intermarket Group, Andres acquired experience in planning and supervision, managing technical service projects, spare parts and troubleshooting for technical support organizations.

Our talent, resources and organizational structure are focused on providing excellence to our partnerships and achieving mutual business goals. The team, at The Intermarket Group, values the trust and confidence placed in us throughout our 30 years in business.
